

Municipal Court Plan Appears Set For Smooth Sailing

Barring an unexpected reversal in City Council and in the apparent trend of local community sentiment, a plan to establish a municipal court in Circleville appears to be set for smooth sailing.

Mayor Ed Amey recently vetoed a Council resolution endorsing the proposal, but indications are that the lawmakers will reaffirm their action over his veto at their Feb. 3 meeting.

The Mayor has said there is apparently no need for a community mass meeting on the matter. Thus the way appears clear for Ed Wallace, Pickaway County representative, to introduce the necessary legislation at the present session. Action would be in the form of an amendment to add Circleville's name to the list of communities which already have a city court setup.

Local attorneys said the measure could probably be put in effect here the first of next year. Meanwhile, backers for the plan pointed out it should turn thousands of dollars in new revenue into the city treasury each year, bringing much needed relief to the lean picture of municipal finances. Even before a municipal court system could be installed here, the city faces several major problems that can only be solved with additional revenue.

City firemen and police have asked for higher pay. Expansion of sewage disposal facilities will probably become necessary before 1954.

And Council, at its last meeting, heard again of serious shortcomings in the city sewer system.

Major savings seen for the new setup would be through the elimination of fees for the mayor and chief of police. Thousands of dollars now lost to the city, through the arrangement by which cases are tried under state law instead of city ordinance, would be available to pay operating costs of the municipal court.

Proponents of the plan predict the new setup will also realize several thousand dollars profit from the beginning, when money that now goes to the county is held as municipal revenue.

It was recently disclosed Lancaster's municipal court netted $8,730.52 in its first year.

Supporters for the plan here suggest the new court, at least at the beginning, be designed only to cover Circleville Township. Under this arrangement, minimum annual salary for the judge would be $2,000, with the understanding he could practice law on the side in cases not involving his own court.

With anticipation of many small civil claims, it is also intended to have a clerk for the court, possibly on a full-time basis.

Duties of bailiff, it has been pointed out, could be added to normal duties of the chief of police.

Rather than undertake at this time serious consideration for construction of a new city jail, it was indicated a contract with the county will be made to "pay rent" for city prisoners in the county jail. It was estimated such rent would be approximately one dollar a day per prisoner.

Under a municipal court, some supporters of the plan believe, the city attorney's salary could be set at $2,000. They predict the civil side of a municipal court here would make itself sustaining with civil jurisdiction over cases ranging up to $2,000.

It would afford a place where small civil law suits can be handled much more rapidly than is now possible.

Municipal court advocates predict it would be welcomed here by state patrol officers "who want drunken drivers taken off the highways through suspension of license" in a court of record. The city court, they added, would have automatic county-wide criminal jurisdiction.

Ike's Cabinet Now Complete

Senate Gives OK And Advice To Defense Secretary Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's original choice Cabinet—eight millionaires and a plumber—now is approved and official.

Final confirmation of the remaining member, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, came Monday in the Senate by a vote of 77-6. Along with it went some sharp advice to Wilson on how to conduct himself in his new assignment as secretary of defense.

That action by the Senate gave President Eisenhower a full Cabinet but apparently left him some political problems.

Wilson was approved, after a 10-day controversy, by the votes of 47 of the Senate's 48 Republicans and 30 of 46 Democrats.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) and five Democrats—Johnston of South Carolina, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia, Lehman of New York and Willis Smith of North Carolina—voted against confirmation of the former General Motors boss.

Wilson's agreement to sell more than 2½ million dollars worth of GM stock paved the way for his confirmation but it was causing trouble for two men he has proposed as his aides.

THEY ARE Robert T. B. Stevens, named informally as Army secretary, and Harold E. Talbott, named as air secretary.

This situation was thrown back to Eisenhower for a decision. Stevens and Talbott have said they can't afford to sell some financial holdings. The prevailing Senate opinion seemed to be that they will sell or they won't be confirmed.

Eisenhower may move slowly in giving them formal nominations, which the Senate Armed Services Committee has ruled must be forthcoming before they can be summoned to testify again. They appeared with Wilson at closed hearings Jan. 15 and 16.

The understanding of Armed Services Committee members was that the names of Wilson's proposed assistants will be sent to the Senate one at a time, with that of Roger M. Kyes, chosen deputy secretary, due first.

Second on the list may be Robert B. Anderson, designated for secretary of the Navy. He has testified he does not have any industrial holdings. Kyes said he would sell about 3,000 shares of GM stock. He thus is regarded as likely to get speedy Senate approval along with Anderson.

Whether Eisenhower ever formally submits the names of Talbott and Stevens appeared to depend on whether they can satisfy senators informally in advance that they ought to be confirmed under the rule applied to Wilson.

FUTURE ACTION IN KOREA is discussed as President Dwight D. Eisenhower confers in Washington with Lt. Gen. Maxwell Taylor, new commander of the Eighth Army. New military strategy is being planned to hasten the end of the Korean war, it was reported.

Lull Reached In Ruff Slaying Investigations

Investigation of the slaying of Daniel Ruff moved into a lull in the way of surface developments Tuesday and there were indications the picture may remain without major change for two weeks.

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer said a first degree murder accusation against Mary Agnes Ruff, held in her husband's slaying, will probably be the first case considered by the grand jury two weeks hence.

He said the jury's session would probably be adjourned Tuesday for that length of time.

Ruff was found shot to death Jan. 15 in his home along Route 23 near South Bloomfield. Mrs. Ruff took their two children with her and drove to her mother's home in Columbus before authorities arrived at the scene.

She has said she has no recollection of shooting her husband.

DETECTIVE Jim Crendon, hired by the defense to aid in the investigation, was absent from the city last weekend, but was due to return here shortly.

Crendon has said it "will take some time" before he is familiar with all important details in the case and added he would have no statement to make in the immediate future.

Mrs. Ruff is being held in Pickaway County jail. Her attorneys had no comment to make when grand jury consideration of the case would probably not come for another two weeks.

WILSON GOT Senate approval by a wide margin, but some senators who voted for him made it clear they were doing so only because they felt Eisenhower should have the man he wanted for defense secretary.

Sen. Morse told the Senate it wasn't enough for Wilson to sell his GM holdings. Morse said Wilson's proposed sale of GM stock wasn't any sacrifice, because the estimated $600,000 in taxes Wilson will have to pay comes out of his profits in selling the stock for more than he originally paid for it.

"Why, you'd think we were taking his trousers off," the Oregon senator said scornfully.

Sens. Lehman and Willis Smith contended that even after Wilson disposes of his personal GM holdings, he will have an indirect interest in the motor firm through stock held by his wife and shares he proposes to give his children and grandchildren.

Senator Hendrickson (R-NJ) told Wilson indirectly that he can't run the Defense Department the way he did General Motors. He said: "He himself may very soon learn that there is a real difference between the talents of corporate management and the art, the great art of leadership in government."

Grand Jury Ending Deliberation On Cases Involving 20 Persons

Pickaway County's January grand jury was expected to have ended its deliberations Tuesday afternoon in cases involving 20 persons.

Included in the cases which were to have been presented before the grand jurors were manslaughter, larceny, forgery, assault, battery, menacing threats, disposal of mortgaged property, non-support and malicious destruction of property.

Following its deliberations Tuesday, the grand jury was expected to be recessed for two weeks, when it is to be recalled to review two more accusations.

Chief of the later accusations to be deliberated will be concerning Mrs. Mary Ruff, 34, of Ashville Route 2, accused of first degree murder in the death of her husband.

THE OTHER accusation expected to be presented will be a felony assault case against Frederick Arthur Regan of Ashville, accused of molesting a 10-year-old girl.

Grand jurors meeting Monday and Tuesday were to have considered cases against the following:

Preston Beeman, manslaughter with auto;

Willie James Morgan, four counts of forgery;

John Davis, larceny;

Ray Edward Davis, larceny;

Evelyn Beal, manslaughter with auto;

Earl Congrove, four counts of bad checks, one of larceny;

James Hill, two counts of grand larceny;

James Jones, grand larceny;

Prentiss Diles, assault with a sharp weapon;

Merle Ankrom, neglect;

Homer Boggs, non-support;

Clarence Brigner Jr., assault and battery and menacing threats;

James W. Tagg, assault and battery;

Harold Carruthers, no registration;

Woodrow Deskins, disposing of mortgaged property;

Charles George, assault and battery;

Lester Lewis, threatening with a gun;

Melvin Strous, two counts of non-support;

Bennie Jones, manslaughter with auto; and

Bertie Palm, malicious destruction of property.

Members of the grand jury called for the two-day deliberations were Harold Struckman, Mildred Wertman, Marie Gibson, Rose Russell, Mildred Dowden, Marie Wilkin, Keith Bidwell, Mrs. Fay Welker, Katherine Harman, Harold Gulick, Adrian Liston, Edward Wardell, John Messick, Charles Mumaw Jr. and Sylvia Johnson.

Dodge Is Called For Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph Dodge, new head of the Budget Bureau, was to testify today on a bill to continue for President Eisenhower authority to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

Dodge was called by the House Government Operations Committee along with Rep. Brown (R-Ohio), sponsor of the measure.

Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich.), who is opposed to the proposal, said he expects the group to report favorably on it so it can be considered by the house on Thursday.

Legion Corps Set To Battle Polio With 'Block Of Dimes'

Circleville's American Legion drum and bugle corps will sound off in the battle against polio here next Saturday along a front stretching westward from Court and Main streets.

From noon until 9 p. m. Saturday, members of the corps will be working to step up donations to the annual nationwide March of Dimes.

For the corps, it will be the fourth annual "Block of Dimes" maneuver—placing cash contributions on the sidewalk in a long line that always stretches for more than an actual block distance.

James P. Shea, corps finance officer, explained:

"It's just a big promotion stunt that has become a community tradition here, to see the money go on the line in behalf of the children and all the others stricken by polio. Circleville's contributions that day, in other words, will be in full view for all to see."

FHA Relaxes Housing Deal In A-Area

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today announced steps to encourage housing construction near the Pike County Atomic Energy Commission plant.

Karl W. Kumlner, FHA director in Columbus, said the government has authorized increases in the amount of insurance on FHA mortgages in the Portsmouth-Chillicothe critical defense housing area.

Kumlner said the authorization was granted because a survey indicated high construction costs have contributed to the delay in housing administration. He said a defense housing program for 1,000 units was announced last October but so far has not been started. He added builders have been reluctant to start construction under the $8,130 maximum loans previously allowed by the FHA.

Here are the new mortgage insurance scales with the previous maximums in parentheses:

Two-bedroom house, $9,000 ($8,100), plus an increase of $1,050 for each additional bedroom in single-family dwellings; two-family house, $16,000 ($15,000), plus an increase of $1,050 for additional bedrooms; apartment houses, $9,000 ($8,100) for four or more room units; and $8,100 ($7,200) for less than four-room units.

The authorization will apply to all new construction in Scioto, Pike, Ross and Jackson Counties, but is limited to housing construction started on or after Jan. 23, 1953.

They indicated the President would emphasize foreign affairs—especially co-ordination of U. S. efforts in various areas. There few reports on what, if anything, the President planned to say on domestic matters.

Lawmakers said they expect him to delay until after additional conferences with Budget Director Dodge any specific recommendations for cutting former President Truman's $78.6 billion budget.

The President was said to have asked for continuance of the governmental reorganization power which expires soon.

Eisenhower was understood to have been urged by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), the majority leader, to end price-wage controls, as he could do by executive order.

Taxes were reported to have been discussed at length at the conference but some of those who attended said they came away with no clear indication of what Eisenhower's recommendation will be on this score.

Banker Faces Rap

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Ludwig R. Schickel, the quiet, graying 41-year-old former bank president who embezzled $600,000 in bank funds to finance his rise from cashier to president, goes to federal court Friday to learn his fate.

COLD WAR POLICY BOARD IS SET UP

Legislature Marking Time; Code Revision Is Bottleneck

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Legislature marked off another legislative day of relative inaction Monday, but promised to pick up speed today by shoving the streamlined Ohio code through the House.

The Senate held only a four-minute session Monday night and failed to take a vote on the $1½ million appropriation to modernize Ohio's prisons. Expectations now are that the bill will be voted on Wednesday and sent back to the House for approval of amendments.

The House Judiciary Committee brought in a bale of correctional amendments when it reported back favorably to the House on the code bill. The House immediately recessed while its rules committee put the big bill on the House calendar.

If the House gives the code revision measure the expected whipping majority, the Senate is expected to follow suit with a minimum of delay.

Little real action, aside from a handful of emergency measures, can be expected from the Legislature until the fate of the code revision bill is decided.

Proposed new laws must be made to fit into the numbering system of either the old code or the new. Legislators are holding their bills in their pockets until the issue is resolved.

Included in a batch of resolutions received in the House was one by Rep. Guy C. Hiner (R-Stark) to set up a six-member joint committee of the Senate and House to study the problem of sex pervers. It would be the committee's duty to analyze data on the detection, treatment, quarantine and rehabilitation of sex psychopaths.

The House will receive, possibly today, a bill authorizing a $12 million loan from the state treasury to the highway department to speed springtime work on key highway projects.

The bill, drawn by Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell and his aides at the suggestion of Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will provide the loan becomes an outright grant if the loan later is declared illegal.

The bill itemizes the distribution of the loan or grant this way, the state's share listed first and the total cost of the project second:

Toledo Expressway, $300,000 and $565,000; Cincinnati Lower River

Rd., $570,000 and $2,044,000; Cleveland Shoreway, $715,000 and $3,200,000; Akron Expressway, $1,925,000 and $6,500,000; Marietta Bridge over Muskingum River, $838,000 and $1,750,000; Columbus Spring St. - Sandusky St. traffic cloverleaf, $1,465,000 and $4,430,000; relocation of Ohio 8 in Summit County to meet Northern Ohio Turnpike, $1,440,000 and $2,533,000; development of U. S. 23 from one mile north of Portsmouth to Waverly, $3,832,000 and $13,722,000, and improvement of Ohio 104 and Ohio 124 in Pike County, $912,000 and $1,950,000.

Taft's Changes In Labor Law To Get Approval, Belief

WASHINGTON (AP)—An influential senator said today a series of changes proposed by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in the Taft-Hartley labor law has a good chance of being accepted by unions and industry.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate Labor Committee says all of Taft's proposed amendments to the T-H law seemed to fall into an area in which both unions and industry can agree.

Taft, GOP majority leader and principal author of the labor law bearing his name, dropped five bills into the Senate hopper Monday proposing about 16 different changes in the present law. Most of the proposals Taft had introduced before in Congress, without getting them enacted.

Some of his main suggestions: (1) increase the members on the National Labor Relations Board which administers the labor law, from five to seven; (2) completely separate the functions of the NLRB's general counsel from the NLRB itself, and rules whenever one side or the other complains.

Two of Taft's suggested amendments carry out pledges made by President Eisenhower during his election campaign. One is the proposal that employers as well as union leaders submit the non-Communist pledges.

The other would let striking workers, when replaced by other workers, vote in NLRB elections called to see whether the workers still wanted to be represented by a union.

Under the present law, such strikers are barred from voting.

Taft said seven NLRB members instead of five could help speed the agency's handling of cases. He added that if two "conservative" members were added to the present board, it would improve things because "the board is pretty one-sided at the moment."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio will be honored with a special stamp commemorating the state's sesquicentennial celebration.

The Postoffice Department announced Monday the first of the 112 million three-cent stamps will go on sale March 2 in Chillicothe, Ohio's first capital.

Ike Expected To Outline Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders said today President Eisenhower intends to lay down the basic pattern of his foreign policy in his first State of the Union message next Monday.

Although the Republican Capitol Hill command was said to have been admonished by Eisenhower not to talk about their conferences with him Monday lest the meetings end abruptly, some reports on his intentions leaked out.

They indicated the President would emphasize foreign affairs—especially co-ordination of U. S. efforts in various areas. There few reports on what, if anything, the President planned to say on domestic matters.

Lawmakers said they expect him to delay until after additional conferences with Budget Director Dodge any specific recommendations for cutting former President Truman's $78.6 billion budget.

Science May Have Vaccine To Protect Against Polio

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists now have a vaccine which they have good reason to believe will protect humans against polio, ending the dread scourge of a crippling and killing virus.

The proof of the pudding will come through tests on many children, to be run this year. This is the main substance of a report Monday night by Dr. Harry M. Weaver, research director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This vaccine is one payoff of $18 million devoted to research by the March of Dimes funds since 1938. It looks like the best practical answer yet to the challenge of polio.

It has stimulated a few humans, and many monkeys and chimpanzees, to make their own antibodies of disease-fighters against all three types of polio virus. The monkeys, in fact, went scot-free even when given lethal doses of polio virus after the vaccination.

The acid test for this vaccine

still lies ahead, the tests on thousands of children.

EVEN IF IT works, the vaccine will not be generally available this year, not until some questions are answered about how good and how long its protective effect lasts.

But it is certain that this vaccine is safe, that it can't cause polio in children or adults who get the shots. For it is made out of viruses killed by chemical treatment so that the viruses cannot damage human nerves.

And it is certain that the vaccine could protect against all three types of viruses that can cause human polio.

It took three solid years of work, costing $1,370,000, to learn that there are only three such viruses, named the Brunhilde, Lansing and Leon strains, which are dangerous. This vaccine contains all three types.

Medical research also has learned how to make these viruses in practically unlimited quantities.

President Ike Taps Aides To Plan Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strategy board for the cold war was created by President Eisenhower Monday to study techniques in "the struggle for the minds of men."

The President named eight men for the project and instructed them to report to him by June 30. The White House said:

"The committee will survey and evaluate the government's information and related policies and activities with particular reference to international relations and the national security."

It is a "psychological strategy board," James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said.

In appointing the strategy board, Eisenhower implemented one part of a plan of operations for the cold war that he outlined during his election campaign. Speaking in San Francisco Oct. 8, he said:

"IN COLD WAR, we do not use an arsenal of arms and armaments. Rather, we use all means short of war to lead men to believe in the values that will preserve peace and freedom.

"The means we shall use to spread this truth are often called 'psychological.' Don't be afraid of that term. 'Psychological warfare' is the struggle for the minds and wills of men."

He went on to outline a five-part program, one point of which called for creation of an agency to "handle the national psychological effort."

The new group, members of which will receive no pay, is made up of:

William H. Jackson, 51, New York investment executive, chairman; C. D. Jackson, 50, New York, publisher of Fortune magazine; Sigvard Larmon, 62, president of Young and Rubicam, New York advertising agency; Gordon Gray, 44, president of the University of North Carolina; Barklie McKee Henry, 50, Princeton, N. J., director of the U. S. Trust Company; John C. Hughes, 62, New York, President of McCampbell and Company, textile representatives; Abbot Washburn, 38, Minneapolis, formerly of General Mills.

Private Industry Reactor Expected

AKRON (AP)—The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission "would not be surprised" if private industry asks for a large reactor providing peaceful atomic power.

Gordon Dean, speaking at a chamber of commerce meeting Monday night, said he believed the request would come within two years. Such a reactor, he said, would be a part of an electronic power supply.

Ex-Economist Found Guilty

William Remington
Convicted Of Perjury

NEW YORK (AP)—William W. Remington, 35, former government economist, was convicted today of perjury in denying he ever gave secret government data to Elizabeth Bentley for relay to Russia.

He also was convicted on a second perjury count for falsely denying knowledge of the existence of a unit of the Young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there.

Remington was shaky on his feet after the verdict. Before it was announced, he sat pale and nervous at the defense counsel table, fidgeting and aimlessly picking at the leaves of a pocket dictionary.

He could be sentenced up to 10 years in prison and $4,000 in fines on the two counts. This would be twice the penalty he drew on a previous conviction which he got reversed on appeal.

The federal court jury's verdict, announced at 3:30 a. m., left further charges hanging over his head.

THE JURY acquitted the handsome one-time $100,000-a-year Department of Commerce employee on one count of a five-count indictment. This charged him with falsely denying he ever recruited any one into the Communist party.

On two other counts the jury of 11 men and one woman reported it was unable to agree. These involved his denials that he ever attended Communist party meetings in Nashville, Tenn., when he was employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, or that he ever paid Communist party dues.

Miss Bentley, admitted former courier for a Soviet spy ring, was a prosecution witness against Remington at both trials. She said he gave her War Production Board information.

The government can bring Remington to trial again on the two deadlocked counts if it wishes, Judge Vincent L. Lieblich said. If convicted on these two counts, Remington could be sentenced to a possible maximum of another 10 years and $4,000 in fines.

Small Saucer Said Sighted Over Japan

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Air Force tonight reported a small, metallic, disc-shaped object made a controlled, sweeping pass at an American jet fighter-bomber and was observed at very close range.

The report, from Air Force intelligence files, said the sighting was made over Northern Japan at 11:20 a. m. March 29, 1952, by Lt. D. C. Brigham, Rockford, Ill.

Brigham described it as "about eight inches in diameter, very thin, round, and as shiny as polished chromium; had no apparent projections and left no exhaust trails or vapor trails."

He said it caught up with an F-84 Thunderjet, hovered a few moments and then shot out of sight. The F-84 pilot, whose name was not revealed, did not see it.

It was the second disclosure in a week by Air Force intelligence of mysterious flying objects over Northern Japan near the Russian-Siberia area.

Parents Jailed For Selling Tot

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A young father and mother—expecting a second child soon—were in jail today on charges of selling their first born for $250.

Detective Inspector Everett Carroll said Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Haynes made the deal to satisfy a poker debt. The couple, however, declared they needed the money to defray the cost of having another baby.

The couple are to appear next Friday for a hearing. Joseph Kinick, superintendent of the juvenile department, said he will ask that the Hayneses' daughter, Frances, 2, be made a ward of the court.

"These parents have forfeited their rights and the petition will say as much," Kinick declared.

Leaders To Study Sesqui Fete Here

Robert Colville, Circleville's "Mr. Pumpkin Show," announced Tuesday that steps will soon be taken to tie in the annual festival with Ohio's Sesquicentennial celebration this year.

He said leaders of the Pumpkin Show will confer with Mac Noggle on ways and means to inject the state's birthday theme into the Show next Fall.

Noggle is chairman of a committee formed to synchronize community events in various parts of the county with the Sesquicentennial which formally begins in March.

1st Grade Pupils Get 'Vacations'

First grade youngsters of Jackson Township school have been given a two-day "vacation" because of sickness.

The Jackson first graders were sent home Tuesday to remain until Thursday because of a high percentage of absences due to influenza.

County Superintendent George McDowell said many schools in the county system are also being affected by high absences, but none sufficiently hard-hit yet to merit closings.

Store Blast Kills 6 People In H-Area City

AIKEN, S. C. (AP)—An explosion wrecked an electrical store in the center of town today and at least six persons were reported killed.

The blast in the Jones Electrical Co. store demolished the building and a fire broke out.

Mayor O'Dell Weeks said it was known definitely six persons were in the building at the time of the explosion. He expressed belief their bodies were buried in the debris.

The blast occurred while an investigation was being made of a leaking gas line serving the store.

The fire spread rapidly and was raging in several nearby stores within a matter of minutes.

Aiken, a famous resort town, is 18 miles east of Augusta, Ga. It is on the northern edge of the site of the Atomic Energy Commission's huge new H-bomb project. Fire departments from the atomic energy project and Augusta were helping fight the blaze which spread to five stores and threatened others.

Council To Discuss Fire Unit's Needs

Members of City Council will meet here next week with representatives of the Ohio Inspection Bureau on needs of Circleville's fire department.

The Bureau warned some time ago that at least eight more men should be added to the department's personnel. It also indicated, informally, that much or all of the department's equipment may be out of date.

The inspection bureau, maintained by fire insurance companies, has only authority to recommend changes. However, the agency could bring about an increase in fire insurance rates here if it feels the boost is warranted.

2 Catholic Priests Given Death Terms

LONDON (AP)—A Communist court in Poland today sentenced two Roman Catholic priests and a layman to death on charges of spying for the Vatican and the United States.

Warsaw radio said three other priests got prison sentences ranging from eight years to life.

A woman described as a member of the Catholic Rosary Association of Girls was sentenced to six years.

Sentenced to die were the Rev. Jozef Lelito, the Rev. Michael Kowalik and Edward Chachlica, a layman.

The Rev. Franciszek Szymonek was ordered imprisoned for life. Other defendants were sentenced as follows: the Rev. Wit Brzycki, 15 years; the Rev. Jan Pochopien, eight years, three years less than the prosecution had demanded; Stefania Rospond, six years, two years off the sentence demanded by the prosecution.

In the five-day trial at Krakow, Poland, the seven defendants were accused of being mixed up in a U. S.-directed espionage ring aimed against Poland's Communist government.

Rotary Reveals Rough Era For Pupils, Printers

"Rotary Flashes," news bulletin of Circleville Rotary Club, shows that homework problems for the school youngsters—and nightmares for the printers—date far back in years.

The bulletin, in a historical bit written by Mac Noggle, tells it this way:

From an old arithmetic called "The Schoolmatters Affair," (spelling and use of capitals exactly as appears in the book) which was in the McEwing family of Prince William County in Virginia, in 1812, the following brain teasers appear under the heading—"A Short Collection of Pleasant and Diverting Questions."

1—A Countryman having a Fox, a Goose and a Peck of Corn, in his Journey came to a River, where it happened that he could carry but one over at a time. Now as no two were to be left together that might destroy each other; so he was at his Wits end how to dispose of them; For says he, "Though the Corn can't eat the Goose, nor the Goose eat the Fox, yet the Fox can eat the Goose, and the Goose eat the Corn." The Question is, how must he carry them over that they might not devour each other?

2—Three jealous Husbands with their Wives, being ready to pass by night over a River, do find at the Water-side a Boat which can carry but two persons at once, and for want of a Waterman, they are necessitated to row themselves over the River at Several Times: The Question is, how these six Persons shall pass by 2 and 2, so that none of the 3 Wives may be found in the Company of one or two Men unless her Husband be present?

3—Two merry Companions are to have equal Shares of 8 Gallons of Wine, which are in a Vessel containing exactly 8 Gallons: now to divide it equally between them, they have only two other empty

Vessels, of which one contains 5 Gallons and the other 3: The Question is, how they shall divide the said Wine between them by the help of these three vessels, so that they may have 4 Gallons a-piece

Clear Sailing Is Seen For City Court

City court backers, both in Council and elsewhere, have dwelt heavily on the claim it would insure disinterested justice through its provision for a salaried judge. They point out the mayor, under the present system, appoints the police and the police, in turn, may have a tendency to be over-anxious in seeking opportunities which add to the mayor's own fees.

ONE LEADER in the movement to establish a municipal court here said: "What we need is an arrangement in which the umpire's salary doesn't depend upon the batter striking out. Under the present method, if the mayor acquits them he doesn't get a dime."

Also in this respect, it was added, trial by jury can be had under operations of a municipal court.

For the first election of a municipal judge, all candidates for that office would have to file by independent petition within a certain time limit ahead of the November election, and then be placed on the ballot.

Under a city court operation, the mayor would be free to serve as civic representative of the city and also attend to various duties and responsibilities.

Critics of the present system claim the mayor now "spends almost all his time in his court because that's how he makes his money."

The recent Lancaster announcement showed the municipal court in that city had 1952 receipts totaling $51,350.76 in the criminal and civil divisions. It was the court's first year in Lancaster.

A total of $44,448.16 was realized through the criminal division, and $6,902.60 from the court's civil division.

A net balance of $8,730.52 went into the city's general fund.

The court in Lancaster was in session during all of last year except on Sundays and legal holidays.

Oak Ridge Hit By Labor Tiff

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Construction work on an addition to the gaseous diffusion atomic plant here came to a halt last night following yesterday's walkout of some 300 AFL operating engineers.

The project employs about 6,000 workers.

Union officials were not available for comment but an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the dispute is apparently over the engineers' objection to the contractor, Maxon Construction Company, using automatic pumps to bring water from low-lying areas of the project site.

Tread Lightly—Proud Foot!

That's a mighty proud foot you see there. It's resting on the accelerator of a gorgeous 1953 Cadillac.

But we have a serious and timely warning for that proud and happy foot: Tread lightly!

Down under that accelerator is a dynamic 210-horsepower engine—coupled with the smoothest, quickest-acting Hydra-Matic Drive in history.

That great power was put there for the driver's safety—and to provide that smooth, effortless, steady ride which is the essence of luxurious motoring.

It was not put there to enable a Cadillac to dominate the highway—or to dash into the lead when the traffic light turns green—or to out-manuever the other cars on the road.

So don't ever exhaust that accelerator—unless you're in an emergency, and must do so for reasons of safety.

If other drivers covet the honors at the stop light—just let them go. They are first away by your courtesy —and that should be satisfaction enough for anybody.

Just be happy and satisfied with the great luxury this powerful engine brings you—the infinitely smooth performance... the quick "lift" that comes when you nudge the throttle... the great reserve for a burst ahead in case of necessity.

And be happy, as you can't help being, with the scores and scores of other wonderful things about this magnificent car—its easy, relaxing ride, for instance... its distinguished and inspiring beauty... its rich, luxurious interiors... its honored and respected name... and its truly amazing economy.

Yes—there is so much about a Cadillac to inspire and delight its owner that he doesn't need the additional thrill of unleashing its spectacular performance when it isn't necessary.

So that's why we're sure he'll "Tread lightly!" He isn't in competition with anyone.

NO ERSATZ ROYALTY

FADING FROM THE public scene of Harry S. Truman, already all but complete, provided a subject for "copy" by newspaper reporters, but it is merely continuation of a custom as old as the Republic. When a President is retired or retires voluntarily, he belongs to the political past. In the case of Truman the contrast between the White House and his former home is greater than formerly because the President now lives in regal splendor approached by few kings of potentates.

Private yacht, private plane, limousines without number, hundreds of guards and a thousand White House employees, all provided by the taxpayers, are his. But it was not always thus. Until 20 years ago Congress was more parsimonious in appropriating for the White House, and Presidents generally eschewed giving the appearance of opulence.

Little commented upon but noteworthy in the inauguration ceremonies and festivities was the absence of relatives or descendants of former occupants of the White House. Ex-President Hoover was there, but if descendants of former Presidents were there their presence went unnoticed. In fact, kin of former Presidents in Washington today, or prominent in their home communities, do not constitute a numerous clan. A grandson of President Harrison is a member of Congress from Wyoming, a son of Franklin Roosevelt is in Congress as a member from a New York City district. Senator Taft, of course, is a son of a President. That is about the extent of presidential descendants in Congress.

Many observers are convinced that being a descendant of a President is a political handicap, and it may be just as well that it is.

Mass production of atomic weapons will reduce the cost of killing enemies to $2.80 each, according to an expert. Or an outlay of $100 billion a year to keep the population of China static.

Government continues to impose a luxury tax on alarm clocks. Many would be happy if the devilish devices were taxed out of the market.

When public officials being sworn into office say they will accept the challenge of their new jobs, they do not intend to imply that the salary will be spurned.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

The Eisenhower Administration starts with a Cabinet that includes a number of businessmen of proved ability. The design is for a business administration operated by competent managerial capacity.

However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the type of questioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee. It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the businessmen, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his Cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a Representative and every six years for a Senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either house, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November, 1954.

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr. Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest of big business.

Such a campaign argument might be very telling. During the next two years, each of these Cabinet officers and all the other top officials—some 600 of them—will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

DIET AND HEALTH

Migraine Helped by New Drug

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MIGRAINE headaches tend to occur in a fairly definite type of individual — usually one who is very highstrung. Women are more prone to the disease than men, and it is more apt to appear in young adults as the adjustments to life become more complex. When there is not too much emotional stress, the migraine attacks are less frequent.

Women usually lose their migraine attacks while pregnant. After prolonged illness or operations there are also fewer attacks as a rule.

Artery Constriction
The pain of a migraine headache, it is believed, comes from a constriction of the arteries of the head due to emotional stress, followed by an increase in their size, or dilatation. Just what causes the blood vessels to act this way is not known for sure.

Sometimes a woman suffering from migraine recognizes her own trouble, and tells the doctor she has frequent sick headaches. Many times, however, the case may be much more difficult and confusing. A woman may be in the hospital with abdominal pain and retching which is sometimes mistaken for appendicitis, though it may actually be migraine.

Symptoms Misleading
A migraine attack usually produces a feeling of fatigue, so the sufferer can hardly stand up. She also has a tendency to feel faint with spells of nausea and vomiting. Many of these cases are misdiagnosed as "nothing wrong," or due to spastic colon, or low blood pressure.

The type of woman subject to migraine is apt to be alert and fast-moving, with a trim figure and an eager temperament. Usually she is more or less of a perfectionist. Another point often noticed is that her eyes are apt to be very sensitive to bright light.

In a typical migraine attack, the person has a one-sided headache, usually preceded by a warning of some sort, such as ringing in the ears or bright spots and flashes before the eyes. However, these headaches can and do occur over the entire head, and do not have to be followed by the nausea and vomiting.

Drugs of Help
Present day medicine can bring relief to the migraine sufferer. At one time certain surgical operations were done, but they helped in very few cases. In certain cases, a drug combining ergotamine tartrate with caffeine seems to relieve the pain more effectively when given at the beginning of an attack. Injections of another drug known as dihydroergotamine into a muscle are sometimes also effective.

Psychotherapy, given by an experienced physician or psychiatrist, can help prevent occurrences of migraine attacks, it has been found.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
H. N.: I have had a cracking on the side of my lips for the last two weeks. What is the cause?
Answer: The most common cause for cracking on the side of the lips, or cheliosis, is a vitamin B-2 or riboflavin deficiency. Taking adequate amounts of this vitamin usually clears this up.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

DEBORAH had just finished dressing for the church supper when Susan came in.

"I'm not going, Aunt Debbie." Even though she was wearing her pearls.

"Why not, Susan? What's happened?" By Susan's tone and the look on her face Deborah knew that something had.

"Father telephoned that he was staying at the office to do some work."

"But that need not keep you home, child!"

"I'm going to take him some supper. He said to leave something for him on the kitchen table but—he might not eat it. Aunt Debbie, I don't remember his ever staying at the office longer after closing time. And he has never missed any of the church suppers. He thinks it is his duty as one of the deacons to go to them!"

"When Willie misses a duty, something pretty serious is afoot." Though Deborah did not say that to Susan; she did not want to affirm Susan's worry, which she herself really had started.

"Can't Nell take something to him? You said the other day she was not going to the church thing."

Susan shook her head. "Nell—might annoy him. Anyway, she isn't home."

"And you look so pretty, Susan," said Deborah, regretfully, as Susan turned to the door.

It was business at the plant, no doubt, that had Willie down—and what could anyone do when he refused to see it an antiquated set-up, probably worth no more now than the ground on which it stood.

She put an apron on over the new dress to lay out some supper for Rom. She had not seen him since the middle of the morning when she had persuaded him to drink some coffee. But she told herself that walking in this clean, sweet air, even to the point of exhaustion, was the best thing he could do, just now.

She was putting his food on the table, cold ham, a green salad, a pitcher of milk, when he came in. She had to look quickly away from the nagardness of his face.

"I'm going to a church dinner, Rom—I didn't think you'd be interested in it so I've fixed a little something for you..."

He frowned down at the food. "You should not have gone to the trouble."

"No trouble at all, if you eat it! Now sit down." She untied her apron.

He sat down but he dropped his head into his hands.

She doubted that he was aware of her in the room, hanging her apron away, putting on the new hat, taking a last quick survey of herself in the square of mirror that hung over a chest. She went out of the door quietly, without a goodbye.

Clare greeted her excitedly. "Deb, what a stunning dress! And look at me in this old thing. But what's the use of my caring what I wear? Will you do the zipper for me, darling? Poor Fred always has an awful time with it."

Deborah fastened the zipper. Fred came out to help Clare up into the seat of the car. He shook hands with Deborah: "Plad to see you." Though well past forty he still had in his manner something of the shyness, the awkwardness Deborah remembered—the long thin wrists, too.

In the car Clare gave a little giggle. "It's just like old times, Deb, the two of us going to something together!"

"Not much like," thought Deborah. But she was touched by Clare's loyalty to their old friendship—a little ashamed that she could summon back so little of its warmth.

"Look at the cars!" cried Clare as they neared the church. "Park here, Deb—I can walk from here. Oh, hello, Agnes!"

Agnes Peely was pausing in the walk beside the car. "Can I help you, Clare?"

"I'm managing—I sort of edge myself off. There! You know Deborah Brent—you must remember her..."

"I—sort of do," Agnes Peely's hand fluttered out in Deborah's direction. "Welcome to Sweet-home!"

"Thanks. I remember you—you recited pieces in school and you had long curls and always wore a big bow of ribbon on top of your head."

"Imagine your remembering my silly nairrribbons! I think that is sweet of you, Mrs. Brent. It makes me feel as if—" Agnes Peely took a little breath and some pink came into her cheeks—"as if we were good friends! Is that an awful thing to say?"

It was so much more than Deborah had dared to hope for that she said warmly, "Not awful at all! Thanks," and she tried to forget that she and Clare had made fun of those nairrribbons. They went on, the three of them, toward the church, Deborah between Clare and Agnes Peely. "Forward into battle," she thought smothering a zany impulse to sing the words.

As they reached the church basement where the supper was spread, it seemed no forty years had passed since Deb had come here. On her appearance, a sudden silence fell on the room, eyes came to her, sharpening with lively curiosity.

Clare was panting a little from the effort of walking her bulk up the path to the church so it was Agnes Peely who said, brightly, a little loudly, "You all remember Deborah Brent! Isn't it nice to have her back here with us?"

There were murmurs of greeting from the women nearest to them, others smiled. But there was no warmth...

Then a younger woman came up to Deborah, her hand outstretched. "I'm Wait Purdy's wife—your neighbor. I was sorry you were not at home the other afternoon when I called."

Deborah was quite certain that the distinctness with which she said this was to tell the women within hearing that she had called. Deborah said, "Thanks for the flowers you left."

Julia White came up to her. "Hello, Deborah! Like old times, isn't it?" Though her eyes belied the friendliness her words suggested.

Clare had got her breath. "That's just what I said to Deborah, coming over! That it was like old times!"

"Though I guess anything like this must seem awfully dull to you, after..."

Mrs. Higgins interrupted Julia. "I'm Hattie Higgins—I was Hattie Ballin before I married Ham. Maybe you don't remember my folks—they lived in the house on River Road that burned down. Someone said Will isn't coming. Or Susan. I don't know of a supper we've had when they haven't been here!"

"He was delayed at the office," said Deborah.

"But Susan..."

"Something came up which she had to do."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—President Eisenhower's aggressive, long-range foreign program has aroused both interest and concern among three strangely contrasting groups, for it may conflict with their cherished and considered viewpoints on world affairs. They await specific action to execute his strong, positive policies with more anxiety than they choose to admit.

The three groups are Republican isolationists on Capitol Hill, the circle of appeasers within the Churchill government and the warmongers at the Kremlin. The three elements are headed, respectively, by Senator Taft, the British Prime Minister and Stalin, although each is motivated by different considerations.

Whereas the trio prefer that aggression be tempered by caution, Eisenhower has served notice that he means to exert greater rather than less American influence in international affairs. There will be no withdrawal. His concentration on foreign rather than domestic difficulties in his inaugural address testifies to that reversal.

NEW ROLE—In looking forward to implementation of this new role, the Taft faction wants to know whether he will demand even greater military and economic assistance to overseas allies, including lowering of tariffs to stimulate trade. Such a policy would conflict with the Senate majority leader's schemes to cut the budget, reduce taxes and boost tariff walls.

Churchill will soon detail special agents to Washington to obtain more revealing blueprints of the Eisenhower plans for war or peace. Whereas the prime minister has urged a conference with Stalin, Eisenhower bars any deals except on a basis of honesty and sincerity wanting in the Kremlin. Number 10 Downing Street is especially worried over any action that will expand military operations in Korea and Indo-China, or upset England's precarious hold in Egypt and the Middle East. Paris likewise fears for the impact of the President's ideas in North Africa, where the Moroccans are insisting on "liberation" from French control.

BLUFF CALLED—Stalin now realizes that Eisenhower intends to "call his bluff." As in Korea, the United States will move to checkmate him and his puppets in Indo-China, the Middle East, the Mediterranean and Central Europe. Hitherto half-hearted efforts to this effect will be coordinated and accelerated.

There will be no letdown in rearmament of the kind which helped to invite the invasion of South Korea. There will be a firmer insistence that Britain and other continental allies contribute more generously to the European Defense Community. Ike believes that they can do more than they have so far.

ANTI-COALITION—Eisenhower sees two sectors where the anti-coalition must be tightened and strengthened. The primary front, of course, is in Central Europe. He will use all possible diplomatic and economic influence to obtain a Franco-German agreement for mobilization of the former enemy's forces in the European Army. His SHAPE experience taught him the absolute need of German reinforcement in any stand against Russia.

The strongest new "squeeze" against the Soviet, however, will be staged in the Eastern Mediterranean. Eisenhower was deeply impressed by the performance of Greek and Turkish troops in Korea.

The Turkish, Greek and Yugoslavian forces will be heavily equipped and trained by the U. S. New air bases, within five hours' flying distance from Russia's industrial center, will be built and supplied with our most modern planes.

INITIATIVE—In short, Eisenhower intends to seize the initiative in glaring down the Russian bear's jaw, whereas the Truman administration was content to counterpunch after Stalin had slipped over the first blow.

Ike believes that a daring policy, if backed by determination and strength, will encourage and stimulate the free world, including dragging allies like Britain and France and half-hearted neutrals like India.

Eisenhower anticipates some opposition to this imaginative program from Capitol Hill and Churchill. But he is confident of his ability to convince them that autocracy now may prevent a World War III, and that a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a soldier's chains. He might have added that heavy budgets are preferable to hostile indemnities after defeat.

A judge in Louisiana listened intently to a car theft case tried in his court and then instructed the jury to bring in a verdict exonerating the defendant. "Mr. Gotrocks," said the doctor mournfully, "it would not be fair of me to conceal from you your true condition. You are beyond any help I could render you and should prepare to meet your Maker. Now is there anyone you'd like to see before you go?" "There certainly is," whispered Mr. Gotrocks, "I'd like to see another doctor."

Eastern Ohio Umpires Tapped

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The National Baseball Congress today announced chartering of the Eastern Ohio Umpires Association in its 1953 national association.

The charter covers jurisdiction over Muskingum, Perry, Morgan, Licking and Coshocton Counties.

Only umpires who are members of the association will be eligible to officiate in sanctioned district and state tournaments. Officers of the Eastern Ohio group are President Howard T. Moore, Vice President Clarence Johnson, and Secretary-Treasurer Richard L. Wietmann, all of Zanesville.

Tribe Hurlers Honored At Rib-N-Roast

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sing this to the tune of "Makin' Whoopee": Another season, another show, Another pennant, the Tribe will blow.

If this be treason, we have a reason. We know our history.

We hate the Yankees, but don't be fools. When flags are flying, we'll all be crying.

We know our history.

That's the sort of needing the Cleveland Indians took Monday night at the annual Rib and Roast dinner, staged by the Cleveland baseball writers. This particular bit was sung by a chorus.

A lot of baseball brass—including baseball commissioner Ford Frick and American League President Will Harridge—were among the 800 who attended.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians was there, of course, and refused to predict a pennant for the Indians.

"My predictions don't seem to come out," he said. "But we are going to have a fine team."

Then Greenberg got down to discussing the guests of honor—Cleveland's big three, Early Wynn, Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia. All were named Cleveland's "Men of the Year" for their achievement of a total of 67 victories last season.

For their willingness to work out of turn, Greenberg praised the pitchers highly, and he added the name of Bob Feller to that list.

"All they (the big three) want," he said, "is more money. And they'll get it."

At one point, Greenberg turned to his first baseman, Luke Easter, and asked: "Luke, as general manager of a sausage factory, do you have any trouble with your help?"

"No, sir," shot back Luke. "I pay them well."

Seton Hall '5' Still Pacing U.S. Colleges

NEW YORK (AP)—Seton Hall, rolling along as the nation's only undefeated major college basketball team, was voted No. 1 team in the nation today for the second straight week.

The powerful Pirates, who made Memphis State victim No. 19 during the week, were voted tops by 44 sportswriters in the poll.

They piled up 679 votes on the usual basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second, etc. for a comfortable margin over second-place Indiana The Hoosiers, runner-up for the second straight week, received 12 first-place votes and 595 points, while Washington held third place with a dozen firsts and 545 points.

La Salle, which led the poll for the first two weeks only to be supplanted by Kansas State, climbed past the Midwesterners this week. La Salle took over the fourth spot, showing Kansas State down to fifth.

Illinois, still without a first-place vote, held sixth place, but all was confusion below that. Fordham jumped back up to seventh from 10th, moving Oklahoma A & M down a peg. Western Kentucky, which Monday night walloped Tampa, 117-58, took over the ninth position and De Paul, a 58-47 victor over Oklahoma A&M, became No. 10.

Triple-Header Due In Cincy

CINCINNATI (AP)—Everybody is getting into the Rio Grande-Bevo Francis basketball act.

The Cincinnati Garden arranged for the fabulous Rio Granders and Francis to play their game with the Cincinnati Bible Seminary in the huge arena on Feb. 20. Monday, Alex Sinclair, Garden general manager, said the affair would be a triple header.

The Cincinnati freshmen and the Cincinnati Coca Cola will lead off. Then will come Rio Grande and the Bible Seminary in the feature attraction. After that Cincinnati will play Kent State.

Mangrum Pockets Another Purse

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—The wandering golfer headed south today for the $10,000 Tucson Open tournament. Heading the roster was the familiar figure of the No. 1 man of the 1953 winter tour, Lloyd Mangrum.

Mangrum registered his third triumph in five tournaments this month when he breezed home an easy winner in the $10,000 Phoenix Open Monday. The 38-year-old artist cooled the field with his spectacular eight-under par 63 in the third round and put the finishing touches on with one-under par 70.

Ashville, Scioto, Atlanta, Darby Advance In 1953 Junior Tourney

Ashville, Scioto, Darby and Atlanta moved into the semifinal round of play in the 1953 Pickaway County junior high school tournament Monday night in Williamsport.

Those teams moved one step closer to the payoff by dumping New Holland, Pickaway, Williamsport and Monroe juniors from the lineup.

Semifinal round of play in this year's junior classic will be held Wednesday evening in the Williamsport gymnasium, with the finals carded for Saturday night.

In Monday's quarterfinals, witnessed by about 700 county fans, all of the contests were decided by low scores. Two of the games were won by 36 points, one by 41 and the other by 31.

Ashville earned a spot in the semifinals in Monday's opening with a 36-23 win over New Holland, after having held the junior Bulldogs to an 8-1 deficit in the first period of play.

Scioto's junior Buffalo basketball team moved into the semifinals with a 36-24 decision over Pickaway's junior Pirates following a closely-contested battle for the win.

Both teams scored six points in the opening quarter, while the Sciotoans forced into an 18-10 half-time edge. Pickaway rebounded in the third frame to cut the lead down to 25-21, but dropped behind again in the final chukker as Scioto capped the 12-point win.

Darby carved itself a spot in the semifinal round by collecting a win in the highest-scoring game of Monday's quarterfinals round.

Darby rallied in the final period of play against Williamsport to take the win after the Williamsport juniors had posted period-end leads of 10-7, 19-16 and 31-29. The junior Trojans out-pointed the host junior Deers by 12-3 in the last stanza to take the victory.

And Atlanta's junior Red Raiders moved into the limelight with a narrow 31-29 win over Monroe's junior Indian quint.

Atlanta led throughout the match by 6-5, 16-8 and 23-16 and staved off Williamsport's final period rally to earn a spot in the semi's.

Chicago Quint Chalks Up 42nd Defeat

CHICAGO (P) — Word trickled out today that the University of Chicago basketball team has lost 42 consecutive games. Trying to confirm it was a problem.

The telephone conversation went this way:

"Hello, is this the University of Chicago?"

"Yes this is the switchboard operator."

"Please let me talk to the basketball coach."

"What's his name?"

"He's been there since 1921 as coach. His name is Nels Norgren. And before that he was a star player there in Chicago's heyday."

"Thanks; I'll switch you to the athletic department."

The call finally got through to Nelson Metcalf, for 20 years athletic director.

"Yes, we've been losing pretty regularly," he said. "Let me see now I don't know how many we've actually lost in a row. But it seems that I read in the papers recently that we lost our 41st when Concordia beat us 54-52 last week. We played Illinois Teachers since then, so if the newspapers are right we have lost 42. My, that's quite a lot, isn't it?"

Sokolsky's These Days

The success of this administration will, in a measure, depend upon how effectively these men appear to the public in the circumstances of a Congressional hearing. They will not be protected by expensive counsel and public relations men.

They will not be permitted to believe that a good job done is a criterion for courteous considerations. The Democrats will be working to win the campaigns of 1954 and 1956 and the Cabinet members and their associates will have to be very fast on their feet, as it were, to make the grade. There will be no "yes, sir!" attitude in a Congressional committee.

It is an advantage to this country that the top men of management should transfer their services to the government. They can accomplish a great deal in developing efficient and competent administration.

They can save the country billions of dollars.

But they will have to learn to adjust their minds from business management to government management, which is altogether different. They are entitled to a grace of time to make such an adjustment.

And such an adjustment has to be made if the Eisenhower Administration is to hold its popularity with the people. For even an industry would say "the customer is always right," so, in politics, it is correct to say that the voters have the final say.

Rusty Bridge Finally Turns

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (P) — A towering pilerider aboard a barge is on its way up the Arkansas River after being stymied here for three days by a low railway bridge.

Rock Island Railway officials hand-cranked the rotating bridge mechanism yesterday to allow the barge and its 63 foot 8 inch pilerider to continue upstream toward Menifee, Ark., about 40 miles north of here.

All previous efforts to rotate the 55-year-old bridge—including electricity, ties, grease and manual labor—and failed. The bridge is less than 50 feet from the water. The railroad said the bridge hadn't been turned since 1938 and its power mechanism had rusted.

Health Council Prepared To Pick Projects

Members of the Pickaway County Health Council may decide Wednesday night what course the new organization will take through the immediate future.

The meeting is to be held in the dining room of Elks Lodge at 8 p. m.

Organized last year, the group has yet to decide definitely on what its lead-off efforts will be. The January session is expected to outline projects and also select a new leader to take the place of Mrs. Walter Heine.

Mrs. Heine accepted office as first president of the council only to meet an emergency situation. At that time she emphasized she would not be able to continue at the post for a regular term.

SEVERAL projects have been suggested for study by the organization, including plans for a more adequate city dump and proposed unification of the city and county health departments.

Mrs. Heine has made it clear no definite policies have been set for the council. Members were asked in a communication from Mrs. Russell Hedges, corresponding secretary, to come especially prepared to vote for projects. Mrs. Hedges also reminded organizations they should have an alternate in attendance if the regular representative cannot be present.

Early meetings of the group indicate it may draw spokesmen from approximately two dozen community, civic and professional units throughout the county.

Municipal Court Plan Appears Set For Smooth Sailing

Barring an unexpected reversal in City Council and in the apparent trend of local community sentiment, a plan to establish a municipal court in Circleville appears to be set for smooth sailing.

Mayor Ed Amey recently vetoed a Council resolution endorsing the proposal, but indications are that the lawmakers will reaffirm their action over his veto at their Feb. 3 meeting.

The Mayor has said there is apparently no need for a community mass meeting on the matter.

Thus the way appears clear for Ed Wallace, Pickaway County representative, to introduce the necessary legislation at the present session. Action would be in the form of an amendment to add Circleville's name to the list of communities which already have a city court setup.

Local attorneys said the measure could probably be put into effect here the first of next year.

Meanwhile, backers for the plan pointed out it should turn thousands of dollars in new revenue into the city treasury each year, bringing much needed relief to the lean picture of municipal finances. Even before a municipal court system could be installed here, the city faces several major problems that can only be solved with additional revenue.

City firemen and police have asked for higher pay. Expansion of sewage disposal facilities will probably become necessary before 1954.

And Council, at its last meeting, heard again of serious shortcomings in the city sewer system.

Major savings seen for the new setup would be through the elimination of fees for the mayor and chief of police. Thousands of dollars now lost to the city, through the arrangement by which cases are tried under state law instead of city ordinance, would be available to pay operating costs of the municipal court.

Proponents of the plan predict the new setup will also realize several thousand dollars profit from the beginning, when money that now goes to the county is held as municipal revenue.

It was recently disclosed Lancaster's municipal court netted $8,730.52 in its first year.

Supporters for the plan here suggest the new court, at least at the beginning, be designed only to cover Circleville Township. Under this arrangement, minimum annual salary for the judge would be $2,000, with the understanding he could practice law on the side in cases not involving his own court.

With anticipation of many small civil claims, it is also intended to have a clerk for the court, possibly on a full-time basis.

Duties of bailiff, it has been pointed out, could be added to normal duties of the chief of police.

Rather than undertake at this time serious consideration for construction of a new city jail, it was indicated a contract with the county will be made to "pay rent" for city prisoners in the county jail. It was estimated such rent would be approximately one dollar a day per prisoner.

Under a municipal court, some supporters of the plan believe, the city attorney's salary could be set at $2,000. They predict the civil side of a municipal court here would make itself sustaining with civil jurisdiction over cases ranging up to $2,000.

It would afford a place where small civil law suits can be handled much more rapidly than is now possible.

Municipal court advocates predict it would be welcomed here by state patrol officers "who want drunken drivers taken off the highways through suspension of license" in a court of record. The city court, they added, would have automatic county-wide criminal jurisdiction.

Ike's Cabinet Now Complete

Senate Gives OK And Advice To Defense Secretary Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's original choice Cabinet—eight millionaires and a plumber—now is approved and official.

Final confirmation of the remaining member, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, came Monday in the Senate by a vote of 77-6. Along with it went some sharp advice to Wilson on how to conduct himself in his new assignment as secretary of defense.

That action by the Senate gave President Eisenhower a full Cabinet but apparently left him some political problems.

Wilson was approved, after a 10-day controversy, by the votes of 47 of the Senate's 48 Republicans and 30 of 46 Democrats.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) and five Democrats—Johnston of South Carolina, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia, Lehman of New York and Willis Smith of North Carolina—voted against confirmation of the former General Motors boss.

Wilson's agreement to sell more than 2½ million dollars worth of GM stock paved the way for his confirmation but it was causing trouble for two men he has proposed as his aides.

Lull Reached In Ruff Slaying Investigations

Investigation of the slaying of Daniel Ruff moved into a lull in the way of surface developments Tuesday and there were indications the picture may remain without major change for two weeks.

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer said a first-degree murder accusation against Mary Agnes Ruff, held in her husband's slaying, will probably be the first case considered by the grand jury two weeks hence.

He said the jury's session would probably be adjourned Tuesday for that length of time.

Ruff was found shot to death Jan. 15 in his home along Route 23 near South Bloomfield. Mrs. Ruff took her two children with her and drove to her mother's home in Columbus before authorities arrived at the scene.

She has said she has no recollection of shooting her husband.

DETECTIVE Jim Creedon, hired by the defense to aid in the investigation, was absent from the city last weekend, but was due to return here shortly.

Creedon has said it "will take some time" before he is familiar with all important details in the case and added he would have no statement to make in the immediate future.

Mrs. Ruff is being held in Pickaway County jail. Her attorneys had no comment to make when grand jury consideration of the case would probably not come for another two weeks.

Dodge Is Called For Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Joseph Dodge, new head of the Budget Bureau, was to testify today on a bill to continue for President Eisenhower authority to reorganize the executive branch of the government.

Dodge was called by the House Government Operations Committee along with Rep. Brown (R-Ohio), sponsor of the measure.

Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich.), who is opposed to the proposal, said he expects the group to report favorably on it so it can be considered by the house on Thursday.

Included in the cases which were to have been presented before the grand jurors were manslaughter, larceny, forgery, neglect, assault and battery, menacing threats, disposal of mortgaged property, non-support and malicious destruction of property.

Following its deliberations Tuesday, the grand jury was expected to be recessed for two weeks, when it is to be recalled to review two more accusations.

Chief of the later accusations to be deliberated will be concerning Mrs. Mary Ruff, 34, of Ashville Route 2, accused of first degree murder in the death of her husband.

THE OTHER accusation expected to be presented will be a felonious assault case against Frederick Arthur Regan of Ashville, accused of molesting a 10-year-old girl.

Grand jurors meeting Monday and Tuesday were to have considered cases against the following:

Preston Beeman, manslaughter with auto;
Willie James Morgan, four counts of forgery;
John Davis, larceny;
Ray Edward Davis, larceny;
Evelyn Beal, manslaughter with auto;
Earl Congrove, four counts of bad checks, one of larceny;
James Hill, two counts of grand larceny;
James Jones, grand larceny;
Prentiss Diles, assault with a sharp weapon;
Merle Ankrom, neglect;
Homer Boggs, non-support;

Clarence Brigner Jr., assault and battery and menacing threats;
James W. Tagg, assault and battery;
Harold Carruthers, no registration;
Woodrow Deskins, disposing of mortgaged property;
Charles George, assault and battery;
Lester Lewis, threatening with a gun;
Melvin Strous, two counts of non-support;

Bertie Palm, malicious destruction of property.

Members of the grand jury called for the two-day deliberations were Harold Struckman, Mildred Wertman, Marie Gibson, Rose Russell, Mildred Dowden, Marie Welker, Keith Bidwell, Mrs. Fay Welker, Katherine Harman, Harold Gulick, Adrian Liston, Edward Wardell, John Messick, Charles Mumaw Jr. and Sylvia Johnson.

FHA Relaxes Housing Deal In A-Area

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Federal Housing Administration today announced steps to encourage housing construction near the Pike County Atomic Energy Commission plant.

Karl W. Kumler, FHA director in Columbus, said the government has authorized increases in the amount of insurance on FHA mortgages in the Portsmouth-Chillicothe critical defense housing area.

Kumler said the authorization was granted because a survey indicated high construction costs have contributed to the delay in housing administration. He said a defense housing program for 1,000 units was announced last October but so far has not been started. He added builders have been reluctant to start construction under the $8,130 maximum loans previously allowed by the FHA.

Here are the new mortgage insurance scales with the previous maximums in parentheses:
Two-bedroom house, $9,000 ($8,100), plus an increase of $1,050 for each additional bedroom in single-family dwellings; two-family house, $16,000 ($15,000), plus an increase of $1,050 for additional bedrooms; apartment houses, $9,000 ($8,100) for four or more room units; and $8,100 ($7,200) for less than four-room units.

The authorization will apply to all new construction in Scioto, Pike, Ross and Jackson Counties, but is limited to housing construction started on or after Jan. 23, 1953.

The corps collected $301 in 1951 and $335 in 1952, the work being handicapped in both those years by bad weather.

Plans are made to carry on the annual event Saturday unless extremely bad weather prevails. All money collected will go to the polio fund.

COLD WAR POLICY BOARD IS SET UP

Legislature Marking Time; Code Revision Is Bottleneck

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Legislature marked off another legislative day of relative inaction Monday, but promised to pick up speed today by shoving the streamlined Ohio code through the House.

The Senate held only a four-minute session Monday night and failed to take a vote on the $1½ million appropriation to modernize Ohio's prisons. Expectations now are that the bill will be voted on Wednesday and sent back to the House for approval of amendments.

The House Judiciary Committee brought in a bale of correctional amendments when it reported back favorably to the House on the code bill. The House immediately recessed while its rules committee put the big bill on the House calendar.

If the House gives the code revision measure the expected whipping majority, the Senate is expected to follow suit with a minimum of delay.

Little real action, aside from a handful of emergency measures, can be expected from the Legislature until the fate of the code revision bill is decided.

Proposed new laws must be made to fit into the numbering system of either the old code or the new. Legislators are holding their bills in their pockets until the issue is resolved.

Included in a batch of resolutions received in the House was one by Rep. Guy C. Hiner (R-Stark) to set up a six-member joint committee of the Senate and House to study the problem of sex perverts. It would be the committee's duty to analyze data on the detection, treatment, quarantine and rehabilitation of sex psychopaths.

The House will receive, possibly today, a bill authorizing a $12 million loan from the state treasury to the highway department to speed springtime work on key highway projects.

The bill, drawn by Highway Director Samuel O. Linzell and his aides at the suggestion of Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will provide the loan becomes an outright grant if the loan later is declared illegal.

The bill itemizes the distribution of the loan or grant this way, the state's share listed first and the total cost of the project second:

Toledo Expressway, $300,000 and $565,000; Cincinnati Lower River

Rd., $570,000 and $2,044,000; Cleveland Shoreway, $715,000 and $3,200,000; Akron Expressway, $1,925,000 and $6,500,000; Marietta Bridge over Muskingum River, $838,000 and $1,750,000; Columbus Spring St. - Sandusky St. traffic cloverleaf, $1,465,000 and $4,430,000; relocation of Ohio 8 in Summit County to meet Northern Ohio Turnpike, $1,440,000 and $2,533,000; development of U. S. 23 from one mile north of Portsmouth to Waverly, $3,832,000 and $13,722,000, and improvement of Ohio 104 and Ohio 124 in Pike County, $912,000 and $1,950,000.

Taft's Changes In Labor Law To Get Approval, Belief

WASHINGTON (AP)—An influential senator said today a series of changes proposed by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) in the Taft-Hartley labor law has a good chance of being accepted by unions and industry.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) of the Senate Labor Committee says all of Taft's proposed amendments to the T-H law seemed to fall into an area in which both unions and industry can agree.

Taft, GOP majority leader and principal author of the labor law bearing his name, dropped five bills into the Senate hopper Monday proposing about 16 different changes in the present law. Most of the proposals Taft had introduced before in Congress, without getting them enacted.

Some of his main suggestions: (1) Increase the members on the National Labor Relations Board which administers the labor law, from five to seven; (2) completely separate the functions of the NLRB's general counsel from the NLRB itself, and rules whenever one side or the other complains.

Two of Taft's suggested amendments carry out pledges made by President Eisenhower during his election campaign. One is the proposal that employers as well as union leaders submit the non-Communist pledges.

The other would let striking workers, when replaced by other workers, vote in NLRB elections called to see whether the workers still wanted to be represented by a union.

Under the present law, such strikers are barred from voting.

Taft said seven NLRB members instead of five could help speed the agency's handling of cases. He added that if two "conservative" members were added to the present board, it would improve things because "the board is pretty one-sided at the moment."

Special Ohio Stamp Readied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio will be honored with a special stamp commemorating the state's sesquicentennial celebration.

The Postoffice Department announced Monday the first of the 112 million three-cent stamps will go on sale March 2 in Chillicothe, Ohio's first capital.

Science May Have Vaccine To Protect Against Polio

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists now have a vaccine which they have good reason to believe will protect humans against polio, ending the dread scourge of a crippling and killing virus.

The proof of the pudding will come through tests on many children, to be run this year. This is the main substance of a report Monday night by Dr. Harry M. Weaver, research director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This vaccine is one payoff of $18 million devoted to research by the March of Dimes funds since 1938. It looks like the best practical answer yet to the challenge of polio.

It has stimulated a few humans, and many monkeys and chimpanzees, to make their own antibodies of disease-fighters against all three types of polio virus. The monkeys, in fact, went scot-free even when given lethal doses of polio virus after the vaccination.

The acid test for this vaccine

still lies ahead, the tests on thousands of children.

EVEN IF it works, the vaccine will not be generally available this year, not until some questions are answered about how good and how long its protective effect lasts.

But it is certain that this vaccine is safe, that it can't cause polio in children or adults who get the shots. For it is made out of viruses killed by chemical treatment so that the viruses cannot damage human nerves.

And it is certain that the vaccine could protect against all three types of viruses that can cause human polio.

It took three solid years of work, costing $1,370,000, to learn that there are only three such viruses, named the Brunhild, Lansing and Leon strains, which are dangerous. This vaccine contains all three types.

Medical research also has learned how to make these viruses in practically unlimited quantities.

President Ike Taps Aides To Plan Strategy

Techniques To Win 'Minds Of Men' To Be Sought By Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A strategy board for the cold war was created by President Eisenhower Monday to study techniques in "the struggle for the minds of men."

The President named eight men for the project and instructed them to report to him by June 30. The White House said:

"The committee will survey and evaluate the government's information and related policies and activities with particular reference to international relations and the national security."

It is a "psychological strategy board," James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said.

In appointing the strategy board, Eisenhower implemented one part of a plan of operations for the cold war that he outlined during his election campaign. Speaking in San Francisco Oct. 8, he said:

"IN COLD WAR, we do not use an arsenal of arms and armaments. Rather, we use all means short of war to lead men to believe in the values that will preserve peace and freedom.

"The means we shall use to spread this truth are often called 'psychological.' Don't be afraid of that term. 'Psychological warfare' is the struggle for the minds and wills of men."

He went on to outline a five-part program, one point of which called for creation of an agency to "handle the national psychological effort."

The new group, members of which will receive no pay, is made up of:

William H. Jackson, 51, New York investment executive, chairman; C. D. Jackson, 50, New York, publisher of Fortune magazine; Sigurd Larnon, 62, president of Young and Rubicam, New York advertising agency; Gordon Gray, 44, president of the University of North Carolina; Barkie McKee Henry, 50, Princeton, N. J., director of the U. S. Trust Company; John C. Hughes, 62, New York, President of McCampbell and Company, textile representatives; Abbott Washburn, 38, Minneapolis, formerly of General Mills.

ROBERT CUTLER, administrative assistant to the President, is the eighth member of the board.

C. D. Jackson represents the secretary of state and Larnon the director of mutual security. The secretary of defense will be asked to name a representative.

Hagerty told newsmen the committee "presumably" will look into the operations of the Voice of America, the Central Intelligence Agency, the United States Information Service and other organs of government.

Private Industry Reactor Expected

AKRON (AP)—The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission "would not be surprised" if private industry asks for a large reactor providing peaceful atomic power.

Gordon Dean, speaking at a chamber of commerce meeting Monday night, said he believed the request would come within two years. Such a reactor, he said, would be a part of an electronic power supply.

Ex-Economist Found Guilty

William Remington
Convicted Of Perjury

NEW YORK (AP)—William W. Remington, 35, former government economist, was convicted today of perjury in denying he ever gave secret government data to Elizabeth Bentley for relay to Russia.

He also was convicted on a second perjury count for falsely denying knowledge of the existence of a unit of the Young Communist League at Dartmouth College when he was a student there.

Remington was shaky on his feet after the verdict. Before it was announced, he sat pale and nervous at the defense counsel table, fidgeting and aimlessly picking at the leaves of a pocket dictionary.

He could be sentenced up to 10 years in prison and $4,000 in fines on the two counts. This would be twice the penalty he drew on a previous conviction which he got reversed on appeal.

The federal court jury's verdict, announced at 3:30 a. m., left further charges hanging over his head.

THE JURY acquitted the handsome one-time $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce employee on one count of a five-count indictment. This charged him with falsely denying he ever recruited any one into the Communist party.

On two other counts the jury of 11 men and one woman reported it was unable to agree. These involved his denials that he ever attended Communist party meetings in Nashville, Tenn., when he was employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, or that he ever paid Communist party dues.

Miss Bentley, admitted former courier for a Soviet spy ring, was a prosecution witness against Remington at both trials. She said he gave her War Production Board information.

The government can bring Remington to trial again on the two deadlocked counts if it wishes, Judge Vincent L. Liebelle said. If convicted on these two counts, Remington could be sentenced to a possible maximum of another 10 years and $4,000 in fines.

Corn	1.52
Soybeans	2.65

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat and other cereals reversed themselves on the Board of Trade today, recovering from an early slide which had dumped the bread grain into new seasonal low ground for the third straight session.

March wheat led the advance, rising a cent above Monday's close. The run-up was helped by short covering.

Wheat at noon was 14 to 1 cent higher, March $2.28 1/2, corn 1 1/2 to 1/4 higher, March $1.61 1/2, oats 3/4 to 1/2 higher, March $1.11, soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 lower to 1 1/4 higher, March $2.84 1/4, and lard 10 to 13 cents a hundred pounds lower, March $9.02.

Small Saucer Said Sighted Over Japan

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Air Force tonight reported a small, metallic, disc-shaped object made a controlled, sweeping pass at an American jet fighter-bomber and was observed at very close range.

The report, from Air Force intelligence files, said the sighting was made over Northern Japan at 11:20 a. m. March 29, 1952, by Lt. D. C. Brigham, Rockford, Ill.

Brigham described it as "about eight inches in diameter, very thin, round, and as shiny as polished chromium; had no apparent projections and left no exhaust trails or vapor trails."

He said it caught up with an F-84 Thunderjet, hovered a few moments and then shot out of sight. The F-84 pilot, whose name was not revealed, did not see it.

It was the second disclosure in a week by Air Force intelligence of mysterious flying objects over Northern Japan near the Russian-Siberia area.

Parents Jailed For Selling Tot

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A young father and mother—expecting a second child soon—were in jail today on charges of selling their first born for $250.

Detective Inspector Everett Carroll said Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Haynes made the deal to satisfy a poker debt. The couple, however, declared they needed the money to defray the cost of having another baby.

The couple are to appear next Friday for a hearing. Joseph Kinnick, superintendent of the juvenile department, said he will ask that the Hayneses' daughter, Frances, 2, be made a ward of the court.

"These parents have forfeited their rights and the petition will say as much," Kinnick declared.

Leaders To Study Sesqui Fete Here

Robert Colville, Circleville's "Mr. Pumpkin Show," announced Tuesday that steps will soon be taken to tie in the annual festival with Ohio's Sesquicentennial celebration this year.

He said leaders of the Pumpkin Show will confer with Mac Noggle on ways and means to inject the state's birthday theme into the Show next fall.

Noggle is chairman of a committee formed to synchronize community events in various parts of the county with the Sesquicentennial which formally begins in March.

She also announced the captains of the March, who are as follows: Mrs. Robert Norman of 166 E. Water St., Mrs. Lemuel Weldon of 137 W. Union St., Mrs. Ned Dresbach of 1006 S. Pickaway St., Mrs. Ed Ames of 128 Park St. and Mrs. William Wyatt of 425 E. Main St.

1st Grade Pupils Get 'Vacations'

First grade youngsters of Jackson Township school have been given a two-day "vacation" because of sickness.

The Jackson first graders were sent home Tuesday to remain until Thursday because of a high percentage of absences due to influenza.

County Superintendent George McDowell said many schools in the county system are also being affected by high absences, but none sufficiently hard-hit yet to merit closings.

Store Blast Kills 6 People In H-Area City

AIKEN, S. C. (AP)—An explosion wrecked an electrical store in the center of town today and at least six persons were reported killed.

The blast in the Jones Electrical Co. store demolished the building and a fire broke out.

Mayor O'Dell Weeks said it was known definitely six persons were in the building at the time of the explosion. He expressed belief their bodies were buried in the debris.

The blast occurred while an investigation was being made of a leaking gas line serving the store. The fire spread rapidly and was raging in several nearby stores within a matter of minutes.

Aiken, a famous resort town, is 18 miles east of Augusta, Ga. It is on the northern edge of the site of the Atomic Energy Commission's huge new H-bomb project. Fire departments from the atomic energy project and Augusta were helping fight the blaze which spread to five stores and threatened others.

Council To Discuss Fire Unit's Needs

Members of City Council will meet next week with representatives of the Ohio Inspection Bureau on needs of Circleville's fire department.

The Bureau warned some time ago that at least eight more men should be added to the department's personnel. It also indicated, informally, that much or all of the department's equipment may be out of date.

The inspection bureau, maintained by fire insurance companies, has only authority to recommend changes. However, the agency could bring about an increase in fire insurance rates here if it feels the boost is warranted.

Warsaw radio said three other priests got prison sentences ranging from eight years to life.

A woman described as a member of the Catholic Rosary Association of Girls was sentenced to six years.

Sentenced to die were the Rev. Jozef Lelito, the Rev. Michael Kowalik and Edward Chachlica, a layman.

The Rev. Franciszek Szymony was ordered imprisoned for life. Other defendants were sentenced as follows: the Rev. Wit Bryzcki, 15 years; the Rev. Jan Pochopien, eight years, three years less than the prosecution had demanded; Stefania Rospond, six years, two years off the sentence demanded by the prosecution.

In the five-day trial at Krakow, Poland, the seven defendants were accused of being mixed up in a U. S.-directed espionage ring aimed against Poland's Communist government.

Rotary Reveals Rough Era For Pupils, Printers

"Rotary Flashes," news bulletin of Circleville Rotary Club, shows that homework problems for the school youngsters—and nightmares for the printers—date far back in years.

The bulletin, in a historical bit written by Mac Noggle, tells it this way:

From an old arithmetic called "The Schoolmatters Affliction", (spelling and use of capitals exactly as appears in the book) which was in the McEwing family of Prince William County in Virginia, in 1812, the following brain teasers appear under the heading—"A Short Collection of Pleasant and Diverting Questions."

1—A Countryman having a Fox, a Goose and a Peck of Corn, in his Journey came to a River, where it happened that he could carry but one over at a time. Now as two were to be left together that might destroy each other; so he was at his Wits end how to dispose of them; For says he, "Though the Corn can't eat the Goose, nor the Goose eat the Fox, yet the Fox can eat the Goose, and the Goose eat the Corn." The Question is, how must he carry them over that they might not devour each other?

2—Three jealous Husbands with their Wives, being ready to pass by night over a River, do find at the Water-side a Boat which can carry but two persons at once, and for want of a Waterman, they are necessitated to row themselves over the River at Several Times: The Question is, how these six Persons shall pass by 2 and 2, so that none of the 3 Wives may be found in the Company of one or two Men unless her Husband be present?

3—Two merry Companions are to have equal Shares of 8 Gallons of Wine, which are in a Vessel containing exactly 8 Gallons: now to divide it equally between them, they have only two other empty

Clear Sailing Is Seen For City Court

City court backers, both in Council and elsewhere, have dwelt heavily on the claim it would insure disinterested justice through its provision for a salaried judge. They point out the mayor, under the present system, appoints the police and the police, in turn, may have a tendency to be over-anxious in seeking opportunities which add to the mayor's own fees.

ONE LEADER in the movement to establish a municipal court here said:

"What we need is an arrangement in which the umpire's salary doesn't depend upon the batter striking out. Under the present method, if the mayor acquits them he doesn't get a dime."

Also in this respect, it was added, trial by jury can be had under operations of a municipal court.

For the first election of a municipal judge, all candidates for that office would have to file by independent petition within a certain time limit ahead of the November election, and then be placed on the ballot.

Under a city court operation, the mayor would be free to serve as civic representative of the city and also attend to various duties and responsibilities.

Critics of the present system claim the mayor now "spends almost all his time in his court because that's how he makes his money."

The recent Lancaster announcement showed the municipal court in that city had 1952 receipts totaling $51,350.76 in the criminal and civil divisions. It was the court's first year in Lancaster.

A total of $44,448.16 was realized through the criminal division, and $6,902.60 from the court's civil division.

A net balance of $8,730.52 went into the city's general fund.

The court in Lancaster was in session during all of last year except on Sundays and legal holidays.

Oak Ridge Hit By Labor Tiff

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Construction work on an addition to the gaseous diffusion atomic plant here came to a halt last night following yesterday's walkout of some 300 AFL operating engineers.

The project employs about 6,000 workers.

Union officials were not available for comment but an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the dispute is apparently over the engineers' objection to the contractor, Maxon Construction Company, using automatic pumps to bring water from low-lying areas of the project site.

There Is No Middle Road

Abraham Lincoln said: "I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free." This is equally true today as our government tries a middle-of-the-road policy of being half Capitalistic and half Collectivistic.

No government can distribute the benefits of Capitalism without also imposing the burden of Collectivism upon its people. The greater the range of such distribution, the greater the burden upon the people.

Tread Lightly—Proud Foot!

That's a mighty proud foot you see there. It's resting on the accelerator of a gorgeous 1953 Cadillac.

But we have a serious and timely warning for that proud and happy foot: Tread lightly!

Down under that accelerator is a dynamic 210-horsepower engine—coupled with the smoothest, quickest-acting Hydra-Matic Drive in history.

That great power was put there for the driver's safety—and to provide that smooth, effortless, steady ride which is the essence of luxurious motoring.

It was not put there to enable a Cadillac to dominate the highway—or to dash into the lead when the traffic light turns green—or to out-manuever the other cars on the road.

So don't ever exhaust that accelerator—unless you're in an emergency, and must do so for reasons of safety.

If other drivers covet the honors at the stop light—just let them go. They are first away by your courtesy —and that should be satisfaction enough for anybody.

Just be happy and satisfied with the great luxury this powerful engine brings you—the infinitely smooth performance . . . the quick "lift" that comes when you nudge the throttle . . . the great reserve for a burst ahead in case of necessity.

And be happy, as you can't help being, with the scores and scores of other wonderful things about this magnificent car—its easy, relaxing ride, for instance . . . its distinguished and inspiring beauty . . . its rich, luxurious interiors . . . its honored and respected name . . . and its truly amazing economy.

Yes—there is so much about a Cadillac to inspire and delight its owner that he doesn't need the additional thrill of unleashing its spectacular performance when it isn't necessary.

So that's why we're sure he'll "Tread lightly!" He isn't in competition with anyone.

NO ERSATZ ROYALTY
FADING FROM THE public scene of Harry S. Truman, already all but complete, provided a subject for "copy" by newspaper reporters, but it is merely continuation of a custom as old as the Republic. When a President is retired or retires voluntarily, he belongs to the political past. In the case of Truman the contrast between the White House and his former home is greater than formerly because the President now lives in regal splendor approached by few kings of potentates.

Private yacht, private plane, limousines without number, hundreds of guards and a thousand White House employees, all provided by the taxpayers, are his. But it was not always thus. Until 20 years ago Congress was more parsimonious in appropriating for the White House, and Presidents generally eschewed giving the appearance of opulence.

Little commented upon but noteworthy in the inauguration ceremonies and festivities was the absence of relatives or descendants of former occupants of the White House. Ex-President Hoover was there, but if descendants of former Presidents were there their presence went unnoticed. In fact, kin of former Presidents in Washington today, or prominent in their home communities, do not constitute a numerous clan. A grandson of President Harrison is a member of Congress from Wyoming, a son of Franklin Roosevelt is in Congress as a member from a New York City district. Senator Taft, of course, is a son of a President. That is about the extent of presidential descendants in Congress.

Many observers are convinced that being a descendant of a President is a political handicap, and it may be just as well that it is.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—President Eisenhower's aggressive, long-range foreign program has aroused both interest and concern among three strangely contrasting groups, for it may conflict with their cherished and considered viewpoints on world affairs. They await specific action to execute his strong, positive policies with more anxiety than they choose to admit.

The three groups are Republican isolationists in Capitol Hill, the circle of appeasers within the Churchill government and the warmongers at the Kremlin. The three elements are headed, respectively, by Senator Taft, the British Prime Minister and Stalin, although each is motivated by different considerations.

Whereas the trio prefer that aggression be tempered by caution, Eisenhower has served notice that he means to exert greater rather than less American influence in international affairs. There will be no withdrawal. His concentration on foreign rather than domestic difficulties in his inaugural address testifies to that reversal.

NEW ROLE—In looking forward to implementation of this new role, the Taft faction wants to know whether he will demand even greater military and economic assistance to overseas allies, including lowering of tariffs to stimulate trade. Such a policy would conflict with the Senate majority leader's schemes to cut the budget, reduce taxes and boost tariff walls.

Churchill will soon detail special agents to Washington to obtain more revealing blueprints of the Eisenhower plans for war or peace. Whereas the prime minister has urged a conference with Stalin, Eisenhower bars any deals except on a basis of honesty and sincerity wanting in the Kremlin. Number 10 Downing Street is especially worried over any action that will expand military operations in Korea and Indo-China, or upset England's precarious hold in Egypt and the Middle East. Paris likewise fears for the impact of the President's ideas in North Africa, where the Moroccans are insisting on "liberation" from French control.

BLUFF CALLED—Stalin now realizes that Eisenhower intends to "call his bluff." As in Korea, the United States will move to checkmate him and his puppets in Indo-China, the Middle East, the Mediterranean and Central Europe. Hitherto half-hearted efforts to this effect will be coordinated and accelerated.

There will be no letdown in rearmament of the kind which helped to invite the invasion of South Korea. There will be a firmer insistence that Britain and other continental allies contribute more generously to the European defense Community. Ike believes that they can do more than they have so far.

ANTI-COALITION—Eisenhower sees two sectors where the anti-coalition must be tightened and strengthened. The primary front, of course, is in Central Europe. He will use all possible diplomatic and economic influence to obtain a Franco-German agreement for mobilization of the former enemy's forces in the European Army. His SHAPE experience taught him the absolute need of German reinforcement in any stand against Russia.

The strongest new "squeeze" against the Soviet, however, will be staged in the Eastern Mediterranean. Eisenhower was deeply impressed by the performance

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days

The Eisenhower Administration starts with a Cabinet that includes a number of businessmen of proved ability. The design is for a business administration operated by competent managerial capacity.

However, these businessmen have, none of them, been trained in the political operations which are normal to American life. The difficulties that C. E. Wilson encountered could have been avoided had he prepared himself to meet the type of questioning characteristic of a Congressional committee. The law stands and he should have known it and been adequately prepared to meet it prior to his hearing before the Armed Services Committee. It is often difficult for a man who has managed a super billion dollar concern to realize that once he accepts a government post, he is subordinate to a $12,500 a year member of Congress. If he cannot accept that stipulation, he will fail in whatever he undertakes in public life.

The more effective a man has been in business, the more competent he has been in management, the more difficulties he will face in government. And the reasons are so obvious that it is difficult to understand why the businessmen, who are usually so flexible, do not grasp the psychology of the situation.

Ours is a representative republic, the core of authority being vested in Congress, which gets its power from the Constitution and from the people. It was never intended that Congress should be subordinate to the President or to his Cabinet. The Congress exists and functions by its own right and expects to report back to the people, every two years for a Representative and every six years for a Senator.

Therefore, a member of Congress, in either house, is most concerned with public opinion and those who have had considerable and prolonged tenure in Congress have developed great skill in assessing public reactions. Their major concern is what the reactions to their conduct and their voting record will be in November, 1954.

It is this longer view that controls their present reactions to immediate situations. Whereas the businessman may know about finance and production, the politician is likely to add into that equation the factor of public sentiment. For instance, the law that was passed to prevent dishonorable men from getting government jobs to feather their own nests and strengthen their companies does not apply to Mr. Wilson morally or psychologically, but two years from now, in a campaign, the issue may be that members of the Senate permitted violations of the law in the interest of big business.

Such a campaign argument might be very telling. During the next two years, each of these Cabinet officers and all the other top officials—some 600 of them—will have to appear before Congressional committees to testify in favor of or against legislation, to explain the operations of their departments, to defend policies pursued. This will be a novel experience for many of them. A Congressional committee is not a board of directors. On such committees will be not only the friendly Republicans but the antagonistic Democrats.

DIET AND HEALTH
Migraine Helped By New Drug

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MIGRAINE headaches tend to occur in a fairly definite type of individual—usually one who is very highstrung. Women are more prone to the disease than men, and it is more apt to appear in young adults as the adjustments to life become more complex. When there is not too much emotional stress, the migraine attacks are less frequent.

Women usually lose their migraine attacks while pregnant. After prolonged illness or operations there are also fewer attacks as a rule.

Artery Constriction
The pain of a migraine headache, it is believed, comes from a constriction of the arteries of the head due to emotional stress, followed by an increase in their size, or dilatation. Just what causes the blood vessels to act this way is not known for sure.

Sometimes a woman suffering from migraine recognizes her own trouble, and tells the doctor she has frequent sick headaches. Many times, however, the case may be much more difficult and confusing. A woman may be in the hospital with abdominal pain and retching which is sometimes mistaken for appendicitis, though it may actually be migraine.

Symptoms Misleading
A migraine attack usually produces a feeling of fatigue, so the sufferer can hardly stand up. She also has a tendency to feel faint with spells of nausea and vomiting. Many of these cases are misdiagnosed as "nothing wrong," or due to spastic colon, or low blood pressure.

The type of woman subject to migraine is apt to be alert and fast-moving, with a trim figure and an eager temperament. Usually she is more or less of a perfectionist. Another point often noticed is that her eyes are apt to be very sensitive to bright light.

In a typical migraine attack, the person has a one-sided headache, usually preceded by a warning of some sort, such as ringing in the ears or bright spots and flashes before the eyes. However, these headaches can and do occur over the entire head, and do not have to be followed by the nausea and vomiting.

Drugs of Help
Present day medicine can bring relief to the migraine sufferer. At one time certain surgical operations were done, but they helped in very few cases. In certain cases, a drug combining ergotamine tartrate with caffeine seems to relieve the pain more effectively when given at the beginning of an attack. Injections of another drug known as dihydroergotamine into a muscle are sometimes also effective.

Psychotherapy, given by an experienced physician or psychiatrist, can help prevent occurrences of migraine attacks, it has been found.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
H. N.: I have had a cracking on the side of my lips for the last two weeks. What is the cause?
Answer: The most common cause for cracking on the side of the lips, or cheliosis, is a vitamin B-2 or riboflavin deficiency. Taking adequate amounts of this vitamin usually clears this up.

A judge in Louisiana listened intently to a car theft case tried in his court and then instructed the jury to bring in a verdict exonerating the defendant. When the jury filed back into the courtroom, the foreman accordingly arose and announced, "Your Honor, we find that your nephew, who stole that car, is definitely not guilty."

"Mr. Gotrocks," said the doctor mournfully, "it would not be fair of me to conceal from you your true condition. You are beyond any help I could render you and should prepare to meet your Maker. Now is there anyone you'd like to see before you go?" "There certainly is," whispered Mr. Gotrocks, "I'd like to see another doctor."

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
DEBORAH had just finished dressing for the church supper when Susan came in.

"I'm not going, Aunt Debbie." Even though she was wearing her pearls.

"Why not, Susan? What's happened?" By Susan's tone and the look on her face Deborah knew that something had.

"Father telephoned that he was staying at the office to do some work."

"But that need not keep you home, child!"

"I'm going to take him some supper. He said to leave something for him on the kitchen table—but he might not eat it. Aunt Debbie, I don't remember his ever staying at the office long after closing time. And he has never missed any of the church suppers. He thinks it is his duty as one of the deacons to go to them!"

"When Willie misses a duty, something pretty serious is afoot." Though Deborah did not say that to Susan; she did not want to affirm Susan's worry, which she herself really had started.

"Can't Nell take something to him? You said the other day she was not going to the church thing."

Susan shook her head. "Nell—might annoy him. Anyway, she isn't home."

"And you look so pretty, Susan," said Deborah, regretfully, as Susan turned to the door.

It was business at the plant, no doubt, that had Willie down—and what could anyone do when he refused to see it an antiquated set-up, probably worth no more now than the ground on which it stood.

She put an apron on over the new dress to lay out some supper for him. She had not seen him since the middle of the morning when she had persuaded him to drink some coffee. But she told herself that walking in this clean sweat air, even to the point of exhaustion, was the best thing he could do, just now.

She was putting his food on the table, cold ham, a green salad, a pitcher of milk, when he came in. She had to look quickly away from the nagging of his face.

"I'm going to a church dinner, Mom—I didn't think you'd be interested in it so I've fixed a little something for you."

He frowned down at the food.

"You should not have gone to the trouble."

"No trouble at all, if you eat it! Now sit down." She untied her apron.

He sat down but he dropped his head into his hands.

She doubted that he was aware of her in the room, hanging her apron away, putting on the new hat, taking a last quick survey of herself in the square of mirror that hung over a chest. She went out of the door quietly, without a goodbye.

Clare greeted her excitedly. "Deb, what a stunning dress! And look at me in this old thing. But what's the use of my caring what I wear? Will you do the zipper for me, darling? Poor Fred always has an awful time with it."

Deborah fastened the zipper. Fred came out to help Clare up into the seat of the car. He shook hands with Deborah: "Glad to see you." Though well past forty he still had in his manner something of the shyness, the awkwardness Deborah remembered—the long thin wrists, too.

In the car Clare gave a little giggle. "It's just like old times, Deb, the two of us going to something together!"

"Not much like," thought Deborah. But she was touched by Clare's loyalty to their old friendship—a little ashamed that she could summon back so little of its warmth.

"Look at the cars!" cried Clare as they neared the church. "Park here, Deb—I can walk from here. Oh, hello, Agnes!"

Agnes Peely was pausing in the walk beside the car. "Can I help you, Clare?"

"I'm managing—I sort of edge myself off. There! You know Deborah Brent, you must remember her..."

"I—sort of do," Agnes Peely's hand fluttered out in Deborah's direction. "Welcome to Sweet-home!"

"Thanks. I remember you—you recited pieces in school and you had long curls and always wore a big bow of ribbon on top of your head."

"Imagine your remembering my silly naughtiness! I think that is sweet of you, Mrs. Brent. It makes me feel as if—" Agnes Peely took a little breath and some pink came into her cheeks—"as if we were good friends! Is that an awful thing to say?"

It was so much more than Deborah had dared to hope for that she said warmly, "Not awful at all."

"No thanks," and she tried to forget that she and Clare had made fun of those naughtinesses. They went on, the three of them, toward the church, Deborah between Clare and Agnes Peely. "Forward into battle," she thought smothering a zany impulse to sing the words.

As they reached the church basement where the supper was spread, it seemed no forty years had passed since Deb had come here. On her appearance, a sudden silence fell on the room, eyes came to her, sharpening with lively curiosity.

Clare was panting a little from the effort of walking her bulk up the path to the church so it was Agnes Peely who said, brightly, a little loudly, "You all remember Deborah Brent! Isn't it nice to have her back here with us?"

There were murmurs of greeting from the women nearest to them, others smiled. But there was no warmth...

Then a younger woman came up to Deborah, her hand outstretched. "I'm Walt Purdy's wife—your neighbor. I was sorry you were not at home the other afternoon when I called."

Deborah was quite certain that the distinctness with which she said this was to tell the women within hearing that she had called. Deborah said, "Thanks for the flowers you left."

Julia White came up to her. "Hello, Deborah! Like old times, isn't it?" Though her eyes belied the friendliness her words suggested.

Clare had got her breath. "That's just what I said to Deborah, coming over! That it was like old times!"

"Though I guess anything like this must seem awfully dull to you, after..."

Mrs. Higgins interrupted Julia. "I'm Hattie Higgins—I was Hattie Ballin before I married Ham. Maybe you don't remember my folks—they lived in the house on River Road that burned down. Someone said Will isn't coming. Or Susan. I don't know of a supper we've had when they haven't been here!"

"He was delayed at the office," said Deborah.

"But Susan..."

"Something came up which she had to do."

LOSES 40 LBS. WITH THIS RENNEL RECIPE

CONOVER, OHIO—"I am writing you to tell you what a blessing your Rennel Concentrate has been to me, hoping it may help others who may be miserable as I was," writes L. I. McIntire, R. 1. "I was 40 pounds overweight and sick a good part of the time, not able to do my house work. A friend told me about Rennel, and I started taking it at once. Now I wouldn't dream of trying to be without it. My overweight is gone. I am back to my normal weight and I feel fine. I am working steady in a factory and am 36 years old. I hope these few lines will in some way help others as I have been helped."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain liquid RENNEL at your druggist, mix as directed and take two table-spoonfuls twice a day. It's that simple. Satisfaction guaranteed with the first bottle or send to manufacturer for refund. You'll never go hungry while reducing with RENNEL. Costs only $1.40. Ask for free booklet.

Ashville, Scioto, Atlanta, Darby Advance in 1953 Junior Tourney

Ashville, Scioto, Darby and Atlanta moved into the semifinal round of play in the 1953 Pickaway County junior high school tournament Monday night in Williamsport.

Those teams moved one step closer to the payoff by dumping New Holland, Pickaway, Williamsport and Monroe juniors from the lineup.

Semifinal round of play in this year's junior classic will be held Wednesday evening in the Williamsport gymnasium, with the finals carded for Saturday night.

In Monday's quarterfinals, witnessed by about 700 county fans, all of the contests were decided by low scores. Two of the games were won by 36 points, one by 41 and the other by 31.

Ashville earned a spot in the semifinals in Monday's opening with a 36-23 win over New Holland, after having held the junior Bulldogs to an 8-1 deficit in the first period of play.

SCIOTO'S junior Buffalo basketball team moved into the semi-finals with a 36-24 decision over Pickaway's junior Pirates following a closely-contested battle for the win.

Both teams scored six points in the opening quarter, while the Sciotoans forced into an 18-10 half-time edge. Pickaway rebounded in the third frame to cut the lead down to 25-21, but dropped behind again in the final chukker as Scioto capped the 12-point win.

Darby carved itself a spot in the semifinals by collecting a win in the highest-scoring game of Monday's quarterfinals round.

Darby rallied in the final period of play against Williamsport to take the win after the Williamsport juniors had posted pe-

Chicago Quint Chalks Up 42nd Defeat

CHICAGO — Word trickled out today that the University of Chicago basketball team has lost 42 consecutive games. Trying to confirm it was a problem.

The telephone conversation went this way:

"Hello, is this the University of Chicago?"

"Yes, this is the switchboard operator."

"Please let me talk to the basketball coach."

"What's his name?"

"He's been there since 1921 as coach. His name is Nels Norgren. And before that he was a star player there in Chicago's heyday."

"Thanks; I'll switch you to the athletic department."

The call finally got through to Nelson Metcalf, for 20 years athletic director.

"Yes, we've been losing pretty regularly," he said. "Let me see now I don't know how many we've actually lost in a row. But it seems that I read in the papers recently that we lost our 41st when Concordia beat us 54-52 last week. We played Illinois Teachers since then, so if the newspapers are right we have lost 42. My, that's quite a lot, isn't it?"

Rusty Bridge Finally Turns

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A towering piledriver aboard a barge is on its way up the Arkansas River after being stymied here for three days by a low railway bridge.

Rock Island Railway officials hand-cranked the rotating bridge mechanism yesterday to allow the barge and its 63 foot 8 inch pile-driver to continue upstream toward Menifee, Ark., about 40 miles north of here.

All previous efforts to rotate the 55-year-old bridge—including electricity, jacks, grease and manual labor—failed. The bridge is less than 50 feet from the water.

The railroad said the bridge hadn't been turned since 1938 and its power mechanism had rusted.

Health Council Prepared To Pick Projects

Members of the Pickaway County Health Council may decide Wednesday night what course the new organization will take through the immediate future.

The meeting is to be held in the dining room of Elks Lodge at 8 p. m.

Organized last year, the group has yet to decide definitely on what its lead-off efforts will be. The January session is expected to outline projects and also select a new leader to take the place of Mrs. Walter Heine.

Mrs. Heine accepted office as first president of the council only to meet an emergency situation. At that time she emphasized she would not be able to continue at the post for a regular term.

SEVERAL projects have been suggested for study by the organization, including plans for a more adequate city dump and proposed unification of the city and county health departments.

WHY THIS MAN CAN BE SURE HIS WELCOME WILL BE WARM!

A man whose home is served by gas knows that despite the storm he will find his family snug and warm. His confidence is the result of a service so dependable he can take it for granted.

Back of that dependability is a system of natural gas pipelines, many of which are interconnected. On short notice, gas can be diverted from one of these lines to another. These interconnections are located at various points along the major transmission lines, extending from the oil and gas fields through the Midwest to the Eastern Seaboard. In effect, these strategic interconnections form a vast pipeline network to assure the markets served a continuous and adequate flow of gas.

INTERCONNECTING PIPELINES MAINTAIN GAS SERVICE. The map below illustrates how, at the interconnecting points indicated, the three interstate pipelines of TEXAS EASTERN and those of several other large natural gas transmission companies are interconnected to guard against interruption of service.

LEGEND

Below is a typical natural gas pipeline interconnection. Here, one of TEXAS EASTERN'S lines is linked with that of another company. By the turn of a valve, gas can be rerouted from one line to the other.
